

IMPORTANT GAIN MADE BY FRENCH THURSDAY

Capture of Les Eparges From Germans After Brilliant Attack

TOWN DOMINATES THE PLAIN OF WOEVRE

General Joffre's Troops Carry 1500 Metres of Trenches—Germans Make Fifteen Attacks in Montmartre Region—Dead Lie in Heaps Over Furiously Fought Field in Forest of Ailly.

Paris, April 10.—The following French official statement regarding the progress of the war was issued last night:

"After a new and brilliant attack the important position of Les Eparges, which dominates the Plain of Woevre and which the enemy defended obstinately, is now completely in our hands. We carried yesterday 1,500 meters (about 1,600 yards) of trenches, and this morning the Germans held in strength on the plateau only two isolated positions. We carried these this afternoon, taking 150 prisoners. We have thus attained one of the principal objectives of our operations of the last few days.

Fifteen Counter Attacks

"Further to the north in the forest of Ailly we have maintained all the ground gained—200 meters—on a front of 400 meters and repulsed three counter attacks. In the forest of Montmartre the Germans made 15 attacks to retake trenches which we wrested from them yesterday. They were repulsed 15 times. Heaps of German bodies are lying on the ground.

"On the rest of the front actions to be reported are as follows:

"In Belgium, near Drei Grachten, the Germans by an attack occupied part of a trench on the left bank of the Yser.

Vigorous Attacks

"In Champagne there have been infantry attacks of a local, but very vigorous character. To the north of Beausjour the Germans endeavored to retake part of a trench lost by them last month. They were driven back, except at one point where they succeeded last evening in installing themselves in an advanced French position. Today we made a counter-attack. We recaptured the place and pushed the enemy back to his point of departure, inflicting appreciable losses upon him.

Two Killed By Collapse Of Building

(By United Press)

Toledo, April 10.—Two men were killed, one fatally injured and 12 seriously hurt when a portion of a building being erected for the Willis-Overland Automobile company collapsed.

But for the warning of James Mahon, a mortar mixer, all of the men would have been killed.

OPHORE CLASS BANQUETS

MEMBERS OF SENIOR CLASS

The Sophomores of the high school gave a delightful reception to the members of the Senior class at the hotel Dimeling last evening with nearly a full attendance from both classes. After a very elaborate banquet, they all repaired to the ball room, where dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. The music was furnished by Guelich's orchestra.

Selection from Madame Butterfly

On Thursday, April 15, under the auspices of the Womens club, the selection from "Madame Butterfly" will be given at the Y. M. C. A. hall. The soloists are Miss Marion Bigler, E. C. Reeve and Miss Nancy Miller, assisted by Miss Anna Wright, Miss Alice Smith and little Doris Paterson. Tickets, 25 cents, 25c.

Italy Nearer Than Ever To Entering the Conflict

(By United Press)

Rome, April 10.—Reports of probable Italian intervention and also of Austria's offering to cede the Trentino to Italy are increasing. There is some talk of the possibility of Austria concluding a separate peace with Russia. If the latter story is true it will place Italy in a position as Austria will then be unwilling to make any territorial concessions.

The German government yesterday issued prohibitions against exports from Germany to Italy. It is stepping at the present stations of Germany's Italian friends, and bound themselves to be true to Italy.

INSTANTLY KILLED IN BIGLER MINES

George W. Peters, while at work in the Williams Grove clay mines at Bigler, was instantly killed yesterday morning about 8 o'clock by the collapse of the roof of the mine. Mr. Peters was in the act of placing props under the roof when about ten tons of rock fell, striking him on the back, breaking his neck and badly bruising his body.

The accident was witnessed by other miners and the body of Mr. Peters was taken from the mine to the home of his nephew, Clifford Smeal, at which Mr. Peters made his home. It was found that Mr. Peters had been instantly killed.

Mr. Peters was born at Sington, this county, and was about 40 years of age. He had been engaged many years in the vicinity of Bigler, near which he owned a large farm. He had many friends and was highly respected in the neighborhood.

Deceased is survived by two brothers and three sisters, Ed. at Bigler; William, of Montana; Mrs. William LeVere, of Clearfield; Mrs. Alice Smeal and Mrs. James Bock, both residing at Sington.

Bought a Jitney Bus

D. A. Moyer, of Kylertown, and Charles DeViney of Winburne, were here yesterday and completed the purchase of a Studbaker jitney bus from the Wallace garage. These men will place this bus on the route between Grass Flat, Kylertown and Winburne.

Should be Removed

The attention of the board of health is called to the report that a dead dog has been lying in the alley between Turnpike avenue and West Fourth street for the last three weeks.

FOUND—Dangling from a willow tree, lace pin, and silver pin. Owner can have same by calling at the Dimeling hotel office.

Coach Reading Calls Track Team Athletes

Coach Reading, of the high school, called yesterday for candidates for the track team. This call, it is expected, will be responded to by at least twenty-five or thirty candidates. Many of the candidates have had some experience in track work and being trained by Coach Reading, who turned out such successful football and basketball teams this year, the team will be composed of able athletes.

Invitations have been received by the coach to have the Clearfield high school track team attend track meets at the University of Pittsburgh, Allegheny College, Washington and Jefferson college, the annual high school meet at State college and the annual relay races at the university of Pennsylvania.

Announcements are being made to have a triangular meet at Brookville between the Pennsylvania, Indiana, West Virginia and Clearfield high school teams. A team will likely be sent to the State college meet also.

Jack F. Ford, who was captain of the football team, is also captain of the track team. The team has all the necessary equipment, including adjustable high and low hurdles, which were made this year in the manual training department. The meets will be held some time in May.

The Freshmen are getting a baseball team, ready for the interclass games and have elected Joseph Walker captain.

BOYS START FIRES AMONG DRY GRASS

At 1:30 this afternoon the firemen were called out in response to an alarm sent in from Hillside, where the underbrush and grass were burning. A large number of men were soon on the scene and got the fire under control. The fire was started by some boys, who were playing there.

Yesterday the people in the vicinity of the silk mill were called upon to fight a fire which had started in a shed. The fire was started by a boy who was playing there. The fire was started by a boy who was playing there.

FRENCH SHIP SUNK OFF ISLE OF WIGHT BY A SUBMARINE

Was on Her Way From London To New York With Chalk

German Boat Was Within 100 Yards of French Vessel When Attack Was Made—Ship Sinks in Three Minutes and Crew Remained 24 Hours in Water.

London, April 10.—Captain Brond and crew of 16 of the French vessel, Chateaubriand, from London to New York, carrying a cargo of chalk, reached the French watering place, Le Troport, and reported the sinking of his vessel by a German submarine off the Isle of Wight.

The German submarine approached to within 100 yards before attacking them and then after the first shot, when the vessel did not seem to be sinking fast enough, three more shots were fired which struck below the water line.

The vessel sank in three minutes. The crew floundered in the sea for twenty-four hours before being picked up.

LEADERS OF BARN BURNERS IN CENTER COUNTY JAIL

Bellefonte, April 10.—T. G. Ryan, a deputy state fire marshal, of Danville, captured the alleged leaders of a gang of barn burners, when he arrested and landed in the Centre county jail yesterday Edward Ickes, of Scotia and Bert Finnegan, of Williamsburg, Blair county.

The men are charged with burning the house and barn of H. A. Ellis, in Red Eagle valley, in February, 1914. Within two months before and after the burning of the Ellis building, five or six barns were burned down in the same valley, and it is believed an organized gang did the work.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WILL HELP CLEAN TOWN

Determined That Clearfield Shall be Made a Spotless Town at Any Cost

WILL COOPERATE WITH BOROUGH OFFICIALS

Chamber of Commerce Will Co-operate With the Borough Authorities In the Work of Clearing Up the Streets and Premises of the Citizens—Everybody Should Help.

It is the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce to inaugurate a campaign of cleanliness in Clearfield, and all citizens will be asked to cooperate with the Chamber in this important work. The Chamber of Commerce has issued the following card to the public:

So many complaints have been registered by public spirited citizens against the practice of business offices and individuals employing boys to empty and burn their refuse and waste paper on our river front and in other conspicuous spots in Clearfield, that a strong movement is now under way to put a stop to it.

Dumping refuse has developed into such a nuisance that some of the most prominent places in Clearfield have been freely used to receive every class and description of trash. Some of these spots are a constant and never-failing advertisement of our negligence. Every guest of Clearfield who comes into town, or leaves town, by way of the Market street bridge is greeted by a sight that makes him wonder why we permit our most beautiful locations to be marred by trash piles. Get rid of these trash piles! Clean up every inch of property you own or rent! Clearfield is an easy town to keep clean and spotless, if we all try. Let us all cooperate in this movement for a cleaner, better city.

Let us try to make Clearfield so clean and spotless that our business visitors, prospective manufacturers and all will be glad to come here, and will praise us because we think of cleanliness and good health right along with business. The present day manufacturer looks about closely before investing his money. He wants cheap coal, cheap power and plenty of good water at low cost also reasonable taxes, but he will be just as insistent upon cleanliness and healthfulness of location.

WOMANS CLUB WILL HOLD REGULAR MEETING TUESDAY

The Clearfield Womens club will hold its regular by-monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon, April 13. The meeting will be held promptly at 2:30, instead of the usual hour, 3 o'clock. Miss Isabelle Powell has kindly consented to read again her paper on "New Careers for Women," and Miss McMurray, who is raising rare butterflies and moths for the market, will give a paper on butterflies. 4-10-21.

Resolutions of Respect

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom, to take from our midst our dearly beloved sister, Mrs. James Graffius, of Woodland, and,

Whereas, We deeply mourn the loss of our beloved sister, who have gone to the great reward promised the true and faithful. We bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well. Therefore, be it,

Resolved, by the Willing Worker class of the United Brethren Sunday school, Woodland, Pa., that we drap our charter for a period of thirty days in memory of our deceased sister; and be it further,

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved husband, to whom we extend our heart-felt sympathy in this hour of sorrow, a copy be sent for publication to the Clearfield Progress, a copy for publication to the Sunday School Watchword, and that they be placed upon the minutes of our class.

Russians At Gate of Hungary

(By United Press)

Petrograd, April 10.—With the Russian forces in possession of all the main summits and slopes of the Beskid mountains, army officers here assert that the Austrian operations in the Carpathians have collapsed.

Operations centering about Mesolaborz, including the important points of Bartfeld, Lupkow and Usok, appear virtually to have ended, with the Austrians on the defensive along the whole line and perceptibly weakened.

Will Discuss Local Option

Lesson II.—Second Quarter, For April 11, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Sam. xvi, 4-12. Memory Verses, 12, 13—Golden Text, I Sam. xvi, 7—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

It is certainly restful to be in the hands of Him who worketh all things after the counsel of His own will (Eph. 1, 11) and who says, "I will work, and who shall let it?" (Isaiah, or turn back) (Isa. xlii, 13), provided we have no will of our own in the matter. Even Samuel seems not to have been fully one with the Lord concerning Saul, for he continued to mourn for him after the Lord had rejected him, so that the Lord had to say to him, "How long wilt thou mourn for Saul, seeing I have rejected him from reigning over Israel?" When we can say, "Even so, Father," "Just and true are thy ways," because we are certain that "As for God, His way is perfect" (Matt. xi, 29; Rev. xv, 3; Ps. viii, 30), we have entered upon a restful life. Then its continuance depends upon our living in the perfect will of God moment by moment. Note the message to Samuel in verses 1-3: "I will send thee to Jesse. I have provided me a king. I will show thee what thou shalt do. Anoint unto Me him whom I name unto thee." This left nothing for Samuel but simple obedience to Him who was managing.

But Samuel had an objection, "If Saul hear it he will kill me." The Lord quieted him, and matters proceeded, and Samuel did that which the Lord spake and came to Bethlehem to meet Jesse and his sons (verses 4, 5). The elders of the town seemed to regard Samuel almost as God Himself or they must have had very guilty consciences, for they trembled at his coming until assured that he came peacefully. Those who are walking with God need have no fear of a visit from a man of God nor of the coming of the Lord Himself, for it is possible so to abide that we shall not be ashamed before Him at His coming (I John ii, 28). Having called Jesse and his sons, Samuel thought that he saw in Eliab a fit successor to Saul, but the Lord told him not to look on his outward appearance (verses 6, 7). When we consider Eliab's captious and uncalled for treatment of David a little later (xviii, 28) we do not wonder that the Lord refused him, for He knew what was in man (John ii, 25). Seven of Jesse's sons passed before Samuel, but the Lord's choice was not among them, so that Samuel had to ask, "Are here all thy children?" Then he learned that the youngest had been left at home to keep the sheep, and Samuel said, "Send and fetch him, for we will not set down till he come hither" (verses 8-11).

I am interested to know how David felt that day when left at home and all the other brothers went to meet Samuel, for, knowing what we do of David, we can easily imagine that he would be more desirous to meet Samuel than any of his brothers would, even though there might be nothing especially for him in it. Some day in the kingdom we may talk with him about that particular day. I never read or write this story or think about it that I do not rejoice to see the Lord's way in it. The young man left at home because he was seemingly of no account on this great occasion, and then all the other brothers set aside and compelled to wait till he came, and then to see Samuel take the horn of oil and anoint him in the midst of the brethren.

I think I can hear Eliab say to some of his brothers as they went home, "The old prophet must be in his dotage." There is nothing to it, for they did not hear the Lord say to Samuel, "Arise, anoint him, for this is he" (verses 12, 13). The comfort I get from it is that the Lord looketh on the heart, not on the outward appearance, and when he wants you for any work He will find you and get you there in spite of all obstacles. It is ours to keep quietly on minding our sheep, like David or Moses; thrashing our wheat, like Obed; plowing, like Eliab; doing housework, like Mary of Nazareth; mending nets, like Peter and John, or whatever else is our regular occupation. The Spirit of the Lord came upon David, but departed from Saul because of Saul's failure to obey (I Sam. xvi, 14). God allows us to choose, and if we choose the evil and not the good we have no one to blame but ourselves.

By the advice of Saul's servants he sought some one to quiet him when the evil spirit was upon him, and they recommended David, the son of Jesse, as a cunning player on the harp, a valiant man of war, a prudent man, a comely man, and they also said that the Lord was with him (verses 15-23).

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Softly the evening came. The sun from the western horizon like a magician extended his golden wand over the landscape. Twinkling vapors arose, and sky and sea and forest seemed all on fire at the touch, and melted and mingled together. —Evangeline.

THE CHILD'S LUNCHEON.

A large percentage of mothers all over the land have the ever-present lunch-box problem to solve each day. Some where an ingenious mother who had four other friends, each with a child to send with a lunch basket, proposed that once a week each prepare a basket lunch for the five.

In this way saving the daily task for each. The mothers could do with pleasure once a week what was such a bugbear in its frequency. The mother or knows that her child's mentality as well as his physical power depends upon his food largely and the growing child should have nourishing, plain, wholesome and easily digested food.

The child naturally craves sweets and they should be given in moderate amount, as they are necessary to furnish fuel. Sweets should be given at the close of the meal so that they may not clog the taste for the substantial things as they do if given before or at the beginning of a meal.

Another important point to remember with children is that their digestive processes are much more rapid than with adults, and they need a good, substantial lunch.

Eggs cooked hard and well seasoned make a most satisfactory sandwich filling. Thin slices of meat between well-spread slices of bread. The sandwich is an important factor, and should have first place. Bottles now may be bought at a small price which will hold a hot drink or soup, cocoa and milk being the drinks best for the child. A handful of nuts and raisins or a few figs or dates will add to the enjoyment of a lunch as well as to its nutritive value.

Fresh fruit, an apple or an orange, a cake of sweet chocolate or a few pieces of good candy make a well-enjoyed finish to a meal. The child loves a surprise, will eat with relish and digest a meal much better if it is something that comes as a surprise. Cup custards are most delicious desserts, rice with custard and raisins make another simple and tasty one.

Nellie Maxwell.

GOSPEL MEETINGS BY SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS

A series of gospel meetings will begin Tuesday night at 7:30, at the Seventh Day Adventist church located on Market street. Evangelist F. H. Robbins, of Pittsburgh, will be in charge of these meetings.

Program for this week, subjects as follows:

Sunday night—"The Millennium—No Second Probation."

A hearty welcome is given to everyone to attend these meetings. Come, bring your Bibles.

Being sent for, Saul loved him greatly and made him his armor bearer. How strange it all seems! God moves in a mysterious way. What a wonderful chapter! How can we refrain from saying, "Lord, take control of me and all my affairs and work out in and through me all thy good pleasure." It would seem that Jesse was an old man at this time, and his family consisted of eight sons and two daughters (xviii, 12; I Chron. ii, 16), but David's mother's name is not given.

The whole story is an illustration of the truth of Eph. ii, 10, that God has the life and service of His redeemed all planned beforehand and will work it out if we will let Him. See Jer. i, 4-9.

The regular term of Glen Richey's Summer Normal school will open Tuesday, May 4th and continue for eight weeks. Tuition $7.00, $8.00 and $5.00. J. M. Rowles, President. 91

Edited by

REV. ROBERT C. PETERS

Returning the Empties Philadelphia North American.

The Rev. E. M. Evans is pastor of Trinity Methodist church, in Des Moines, Ia.

In common with many other residents of that city he lately received a letter from a liquor firm in Rochester, Minn., telling him how to get his "favorite brand"—"now that the saloons in Des Moines are closed."

Mr. Evans replied to this invitation in an interesting way with a subject just now uppermost in the minds of nearly one-third of the earth's population—including, in a most immediate sense the 8,000,000 people in Pennsylvania—we print it, as follows:

It was very kind and thoughtful of you to inform me of a way of securing your favorite brand, "Old Bob Adams" whiskey, since Iowa has gone crazy and "batted" in on our personal liberties. One would expect better things of Iowa than to interfere with faithful services of such as "Old Bob Adams." I offer myself as a witness to the untiring energy and successful accomplishments of his race.

Last January a young man stood at my door shivering with cold asking for bread and a place to rest his discouraged head. He was a remnant of refinement, which led me to ask why he could not earn the necessities of life.

He, with pathetic quiver of lip, admitted that a leading brand, not unlike "Old Bob Adams," had selected him for a regular customer and the business world would not stand for it, notifying him that there was no place for his services. Why can't the business world see beyond its nose and behold great breweries, elegant palaces, fine motorcars, sumptuous meals, rich clothing, and all that belongs to your gigantic business and keep its hands off? What right has the business world to interfere with personal liberties?

Not long ago I carried a basket containing food to a house where some side partner of "Old Bob Adams" had been before me. The wind whistled through broken windows as I listened to the weak and pathetic cry of hungry children and the pleadings of a heartbroken wife with sunken eyes and pale face for the bare necessities of life. The husband and a relative of "Old Bob" had long been friends. They together had bought rich food for brewers' children, fine clothing for the brewer and his wife and contributed generally to the upkeep of his expensive establishment.

Since reading your letter I walked down Fifth street of this city, passed the Neal Institute and Keely establishment. I saw men who once had bright prospects for a successful and an independent future, but their faces today are covered with a literature of sorrow and defeat.

I note you pay the French, on returned empties. I would like to send you a full carload of empties if you will honor your agreement. I suppose the freight will be much cheaper in full carload lots? To be honest with you, the empties are not in first class condition.

They consist of empty men—empty of manhood, energy, ambition, prospects, self-respect and necessities of life—empty heart, empty heart, empty stomach. Also empty women, empty of womanhood, refinement, modesty and hope. Will it be worth while making the return of this carload of empties? Will this carload of empties be worth the freight to you?

I will file your blank order sheet, and when I conclude to sell my soul, damn manhood, debauch womanhood, sap the life blood of children, I will honor you with a large order of "Old Bob Adams," but for the present in the language of your friend, Billy Sunday, I will "cut out the red eye and use Minnesota Sleepy Eye."

MOTHER'S LOT IS TO WAIT

Life in Homeburg Has Its Joys and Sorrows. With the Latter Predominating.

It's mighty hard to be a mother of sons in Homeburg. I worked in the post office for a year once—handed out mail—and I got to know just exactly what most of the mothers in town wanted. I could please them with a new magazine and mystify them with a circular or a business letter. But if I wanted to light them up until they took the shadows out of the corners as they went out I would give them a letter from a son, way off somewhere making good. The best of them didn't write any too often. Once a week is pretty regular, I suppose, from the other end; but you should see the mother begin to come in hungry again the second day after her letter came. And when a boy came home successful and prosperous, and his proud mother towed him down Main street it used to go to my heart to see the wistful looks of the woman friends. There is hardly a family in Homeburg of the right age which hasn't a grownup son off at war somewhere—fighting failure. It's grand when they win; but I hate to think of some boys who haven't come back—George Fitch in the American Magazine.

Dust Clouds Armies Make.

An army on the march along dry roads naturally throws up very heavy dust clouds. To those who haven't been trained one dust cloud looks very much like another, but to a soldier these dust clouds tell a very clear story.

The dust clouds thrown up by infantry, for example, hang in a low, thick cloud. The longer, the cloud, the more men underneath it, and a scout can, by this means, make a fairly accurate guess of the number of men on the march.

Cavalry on the march sends up a dust cloud that is much higher and thinner than that of infantry. The most distinctive of these dust clouds, however, is that made by wagons and heavy guns. The dust rises in little groups of clouds, quite different from the long clouds of cavalry and infantry.

So even when unable to see the actual cause of the dust, a scout can tell many miles away what kind of force is passing along a road.

Chinese Mentality.

Archibald Ross Colquhoun, author of "China in Transformation," had great respect for the characteristics of the Chinese people. During his long visits to their country in 1881, in 1883 and in 1896 he had a chance of observing them in all their relations. Their intellectual capacity, he believes, "may rank with the best in western countries." Their own literary studies, in which memory plays the important part, prove the nation to be capable of prodigious achievements in that direction. "A Chinese acquaintance of mine," he said, "was able at the age of sixty-five to reproduce, verbatim, letters received by him in his youth." Whether in mathematics and applied science or in metaphysics "the Chinese is capable of holding his own against all competitors." A new revised edition of "China in Transformation" was brought out two years before Mr. Colquhoun's death.

D. C. Rook has taken the room over the Globe theatre, where he is showing the famous "Safety First Clothes" at $10.00. Come up at any time.

Imaginary Life

Sorrow itself is not so hard to bear as the thought of sorrow coming. Airy ghosts that work no harm do terrify us more than men in steel with bloody purposes.—Aldrich.

TO ENFORCE GAMBLING RULE

Manager Branch Rickey of St. Louis Browns Plans to Be Hard Boss — Ban on Card Games.

"I am going to offer no new rules. The players will not be permitted to gamble. That's an old rule, but wasn't enforced last season," said Manager Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Browns, in other day "By gambling, mean that the men must not wager or any sums that they cannot afford."

"No gambling will be permitted in the hotel. The players may promise to break up their games at eleven o'clock, but they seldom do that. So he ban is on gambling in the hotels, no matter what the promise is for calling the contest earlier, or of limited stakes."

"A little session on the train, under my observation, will be permitted. I can then see that the players cease card playing, and retire at a reasonable hour. I do not favor gambling, however."

Manager Branch Rickey.

NOT AN IMPRESSIVE MONARCH

Napoleon III, in Appearance, Left Much to Be Desired, According to John Hay.

Short and stocky, he moves with a queer, sideling gait, like a gouty crab; a man so wooden looking that you would expect his voice to come rasping out like a watchman's rattle. A complexion like crude tallow—marked for death, whenever death would him—to be taken some time in half an hour, or left, neglected by the skeleton king, for years, perhaps, if properly coddled. The mustache and imperial which the world knows, but ragged and brittle, concealing the mouth entirely, is moving a little nervously as the lips twitch. Eyes sleepily watchful—furtive, stealthy, rather ignoble, like servants looking out of dirty windows and saying "nobody at home," and lying as they say it. And without a wonderful phlegm. He stands there as still and impassive as if carved in oak for a ship's figurehead. He looks not unlike one of those rude, artistic statues. His legs are too short, his body too long. He never looks well but on a throne or on a horse, as kings ought.—From the Diary of John Hay, Edited by W. R. Thayer for Harper's Magazine.

WALLACETON

Mrs. D. D. Richards was a business edcaller to Phillipsburg on Thursday.

Toben Hummel, one of our young fellows and president of our borough council is not very well at this meeting. He was at Woodland Thursday evening, consulting Dr. Mauk.

Carl Houek and Frank Hazel have been roofing a house in Chester Hill the last couple of days.

Mrs. Charles Singer, of Six-Mile run, Bedford county, was visiting friends and relatives in our burg on Wednesday.

Salem's revival meeting seems to attract the attention of quite a few of our young people.

Mrs. John Ternin has been on the sick list for a few days.

John Kennedy, H. W. Ref. Co's machinist, had business at Clearfield on Thursday.

William Washburn, of Morrisdale, made his usual call at Wallacetown on Wednesday evening. Guess "Bill" has some attraction.

Our baseball club has not organized yet, but the boys are out practicing and preparations are being made to repair the grand stand and make a good playing field in Wallacetown that will not be surpassed by any in this neck of the woods. Expect these will organize in the near future.

James Quinn, of Clearfield, who will be one of Harbison-Walker Ref. Co's foremen at our new brick yard, upon resuming operations, expects to shortly move his family to our city. Clearfield's loss will be Wallacetown's gain.

Mr. and Mrs. Swift and little daughter, Margaret, of Clearfield, are spending a few days' visit with friends and relatives in this place.

Mr. Askey, of Osceola, was visiting relatives here on Wednesday.

Miss Eva Goss has returned to her home in this place after a week's visit to his sister, Mrs. Jacob Miller, of Altoona.

To Avoid "Colds."
"A few points to remember if you would avoid taking cold: Never go directly from a very warm atmosphere into very cold air. Don't jump from an overheated room into an ice-cold bed on a sleeping porch. Remove your wraps when shopping indoors on a cold day or when visiting. Don't bundle up the throat, but don't expose the whole chest. Seventy degrees should be the highest temperature in your living rooms or offices. Don't overexert, then expose yourself to infection in a draft or in a hot room that is probably full of disease germs. Keep your quality of air, avoid people with bad colds, and you will probably get through the bad seasons with not more than a sniffle or so."—Kansas City Star.

PLAYERS GETTING TOO MUCH

President Charles Ebbets of Brooklyn Team, Says Salaries Are Altogether Too High.

Charles Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn National League club, declares that salaries of ball players are away out of proportion to the value of services rendered by the men and that he for one does not intend to be held up by them any longer. If they are not satisfied with what he offers them they can jump to the Federal League. Discussing the subject not long ago Ebbets said:

"I've grown tired of coddling the players and submitting to their hold-up tactics. All last season I tried to keep my players in line by meeting the Federal league offers. That has cost me a lot of money. But I am through with those tactics. 'The whole gang can jump, if it wants to. They can't gouge me for another dollar. Salaries have been boosted far beyond proportion. Every dollar being made in baseball is going to the players these days.' 'I'm offering my men salaries that I think are in keeping with what they earn. During the past year I have paid them salaries above their earning capacity. I'm through now. Any of my men who want to jump can jump. I'll fill their places; I'll get semiprofits necessary.'"

Lajoie Alone Remains.
The passing of Billy Sullivan from the American league leaves Larry Lajoie the only veteran who broke in when the league came into existence. Larry is secured of a lifelong job, for he is the player who made the organization.

Signs of Pain.
It is difficult to estimate the degree of pain, but there are certain signs of suffering which are unmistakable: the pained features, the knotted brow, the rolling eyes with widely dilated pupils, the ashen countenance, the cool and clammy skin, the thready pulse, the increased blood pressure, the hands alternately clenched and opened, the cries and groans and the bodily contortions. All these present a definite picture with which every experienced physician or nurse is familiar.

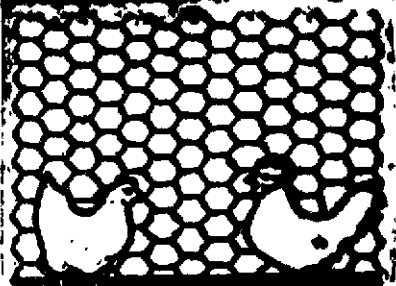

Marriage.
Voltaire, in his "Philosophical Dictionary," says: "The more married men you have the fewer crimes there will be. Examine the criminal calendars; you will find there a hundred youths executed to one father of a family. Marriage renders men more virtuous and more wise. The father of a family is not willing to blush for his children; he is afraid to make shade their inheritance."

IMPORTANT GAIN MADE BY FRENCH THURSDAY

Capture of Les Eparges From Germans After Brilliant Attack

TOWN DOMINATES THE PLAIN OF WOEVRE

General Joffre's Troops Carry 1500 Metres of Trenches—Germans Make Fifteen Attacks in Montmartre Region—Dead Lie in Heaps Over Furiously Fought Field in Forest of Ailly.

Paris, April 10.—The following French official statement regarding the progress of the war was issued last night:

"After a new and brilliant attack the important position of Les Eparges, which dominates the Plain of Woevre and which the enemy defended obstinately, is now completely in our hands. We carried yesterday 1,500 meters (about 1,600 yards) of trenches, and this morning the Germans held in strength on the plateau only two isolated positions. We carried these this afternoon, taking 150 prisoners. We have thus attained one of the principal objectives of our operations of the last few days.

Fifteen Counter Attacks

"Further to the north in the forest of Ailly we have maintained all the ground gained—200 meters—on a front of 400 meters and repulsed three counter attacks. In the forest of Montmartre the Germans made 15 attacks to retake trenches which we wrested from them yesterday. They were repulsed 15 times. Heaps of German bodies are lying on the ground.

"On the rest of the front actions to be reported are as follows:

"In Belgium, near Drei Grachten, the Germans by an attack occupied part of a trench on the left bank of the Yser.

Vigorous Attacks

"In Champagne there have been infantry attacks of a local, but very vigorous character. To the north of Beausjour the Germans endeavored to retake part of the trenches lost by them last month. They were repulsed, except at one point where they succeeded in establishing themselves in an advanced position.

Two Killed By Collapse Of Building

(By United Press)

Toledo, April 10.—Two men were killed, one fatally injured and 12 seriously hurt when a portion of a building being erected for the Williams-Jordan Automobile company collapsed.

But for the warning of James Pherson, a mortar miner, all of the men would have been killed.

OPHORE CLASS BANQUITS MEMBERS OF SENIOR CLASS
The Sophomores of the high school gave a delightful reception to the members of the Senior class at the hotel Dunelm last evening when nearly a full attendance from both classes. After a very elaborate banquet, they all retired to the ball room, where dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. The music was furnished by Guelich's orchestra.

Italy Nearer Than Ever To Entering the Conflict

(By United Press)

Rome, April 10.—Italy is nearer than ever to entering the conflict. The Italian government has decided to send a large expeditionary force to the Balkans. The Italian government has decided to send a large expeditionary force to the Balkans.

INSTANTLY KILLED IN BIGLER MINES

George W. Peters, while at work in the Williams Grove clay mines at Bigler, was instantly killed yesterday morning about 8 o'clock by the collapse of the roof of the mine. Mr. Peters was in the act of placing props under the roof when about ten tons of rock fell, striking him on the back, breaking his neck and badly bruising his body.

The accident was witnessed by other miners and the body of Mr. Peters was taken from the mine to the home of his nephew, Clifford Smeal, at which Mr. Peters made his home. It was found that Mr. Peters had been instantly killed.

Mr. Peters was born at Sington this county, and was about 40 years of age. He had been engaged many years in the vicinity of Bigler, near which he owned a large farm. He had many friends and was highly respected in the neighborhood.

Deceased is survived by two brothers and three sisters, Ed at Bigler, William, of Montana, Mrs. William LeVere, of Clearfield, Mrs. Alice Smeal and Mrs. James Beck, both residing at Sington.

Bought a Jitney Bus

D. A. Meyer, of Kutztown, and Charles DeViney of Wimburne were here yesterday and completed the purchase of a Studbaker jitney bus from the Wallace garage. These men will place this bus on the route between Glass Flat, Kutztown and Wimburne.

Should be Removed

The attention of the board of health is called to the report that a dead dog has been lying in the alley between Turnpike street and W. Fourth street for the last few weeks.

Determined That Clearfield Shall be Made a Spotless Town at Any Cost

WILL COOPERATE WITH BOROUGH OFFICIALS

Chamber of Commerce Will Co-operate With the Borough Authorities In the Work of Clearing Up the Streets and Premises of the Citizens—Everybody Should Help.

It is the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce to inaugurate a campaign of cleanliness in Clearfield, and all citizens will be asked to cooperate with the Chamber in this important work. The Chamber of Commerce has issued the following card to the public:

So many complaints have been registered by public spirited citizens against the practice of business offices and individuals employing boys to empty and burn their office refuse and waste paper on our river front and in other conspicuous spots in Clearfield, that a strong movement is now under way to put a stop to it.

Dumping refuse has developed into such a nuisance that some of the most prominent places in Clearfield have been freely used to receive every class and description of trash. Some of these spots are a constant and never-failing advertisement of our negligence. Every guest of Clearfield who comes into town, or leaves town, by way of the Market street bridge is greeted by a sight that makes him wonder why we permit our most beautiful locations to be marred by trash piles. Get rid of these trash piles! Clean up every inch of property you own or rent! Clearfield is an easy town to keep clean and spotless, if we all try. Let us all cooperate in this movement for a cleaner, better city.

Let us try to make Clearfield so clean and spotless that our business visitors, prospective manufacturers and all will be glad to come here, and will praise us because we think of cleanliness and good health right along with business. The present day manufacturer looks about closely before investing his money. He wants cheap coal, cheap power and plenty of good water at low cost also reasonable taxes, but he will be just as insistent upon cleanliness and healthfulness of location.

WOMANS CLUB WILL HOLD REGULAR MEETING TUESDAY

The Clearfield Women's club will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon April 13. The meeting will be held promptly at 2:30, instead of the usual hour, 4:00.

Miss Isabelle Powell has kindly consented to read again her paper on "New Careers for Women," and Miss McMurray, who is raising rare butterflies and moths for the market, will give a paper on butterflies.

SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1915

Good evening! Adversity serves to bring out the strong points of some men.

Still, that nice warm rain holds off.

Don't let Clearfield be the last town in this section to start a clean-up week.

Even the use of dum dum bullets would be justifiable in attacking old General Gloom.

It is noticed that the moon is the only thing that wears a smiling face when it is full.

High school students all over the country imbibe some romantic ideas with their studies.

The automobile that is run in a safe and sane manner never turns turtle or kills a pedestrian.

School teachers as executives are not always a success, but Governor Brumbaugh seems to be an exception to the rule.

Wonder why the state game commission did not discover that weasel scalp swindle before it became public property.

It's the governor and the people on one side and the political machine on the other in this local option fight, and it looks as if the machine would lose.

Anticipation is much more enjoyable than realization, and that's why so many anglers become happy over the expectation of catching the big trout after the season opens.

President Wilson appears to have a soft place in his heart or head for convicts who have swindled the people, hence his pardoning power is used almost as often as it is called upon.

A vote will be taken in the house at Harrisburg on April twentieth on the local option bill, and it will then be known whether the Republican party is willing to commit hari kari or obey the wishes of the people.

When women get the vote those in Clearfield are likely to demand that the sidewalks in the central part of town are kept clear of loungers so that women and children may pass without having to walk out by the curb.

Some of the institutions in Allegheny county which pretend to care for destitute children are being investigated, and judging from what the newspapers of Pittsburg say, these institutions are badly in need of reforms.

When Paterson, New Jersey, was tackled by Billy Sunday the people of that city of anarchists and sinners didn't know whether Billy was an evangelist or a patent medicine seller. But if Billy can save any of the people in Paterson, he should have no trouble to convert New York.

Probably if President Wilson were to threaten to have the next congress undo the evil it wrought in repealing the Panama canal toll act Great Britain would be less inclined to injure American commerce by refusing to allow ships from this country to carry merchandise to European countries.

A FIGHT FOR PRINCIPLE

Governor Brumbaugh is making a brave fight for principle. He believes that the people of Pennsylvania want local option, that they want to decide by the vote whether or not liquor shall be sold.

spective counties. The governor pledged himself to work for the passage of a bill permitting the people to vote on local option, and he is earnestly striving to have his pledge sustained by the legislature. There is no present indication that the governor will back down on the stand he has taken.

Against the governor and the temperance people are arrayed the Republican machine and the liquor interests. This combination is determined to prevent home rule by the people as the governor and the anti-saloon people are that the liquor traffic shall be driven out of the state. The Republican machine and the liquor interests do not present any plausible reason why local option should be defeated; they are not fighting for principle, but for the perpetuation of a business which has been a stench in the nostrils of the people of Pennsylvania for many years.

If the Republican machine and the liquor interests shall be able to defeat the local option proposition this year the fact remains that the anti-saloon cause will even today triumph. And if the Republican machine refuses to head the wishes of the people at this time that party will have the people to reckon with in the future. The probability that the vote on local option will split the Republican party is one of the most important factors in the effort of the governor and his followers to put an end to one of the greatest evils of modern times, an evil which slays more men and boys than the deadliest war.

A CLEAN-UP WEEK

By keeping the subject ever before the people the Progress hopes to bring about the much needed clean-up of Clearfield. Nothing but the desire to see Clearfield clean prompts this paper to conduct a campaign in which every citizen is asked to take part. A clean town is a wholesome town. Disease, especially contagious disease, finds it easy to invade a town in which the streets and back yards are in a filthy condition. Aside from this fact, the people of a town so favored in other respects as Clearfield should blush with shame when they look upon the unclean spots in their town.

Other towns in this section of the state have set apart days upon which citizens inaugurate a clean up campaign. On those days the municipal authorities join in removing the obnoxious and unsightly dirt from the town, while the citizens proceed to have hauled from their lots the accumulations of ashes and other dirt. With the approach of warm weather the presence of rubbish and germ breeding filth on the premises of the citizens will prove a menace to the public, and the board of health would be justified in enforcing such rules as exist for the removal of that menace. If all of the citizens will cooperate in this work Clearfield will soon be relieved of the dirt which is such an eyesore and danger.

A DIRECTORY NEEDED

Every citizen of Clearfield should encourage the gentleman who is now here in the interest of a Pittsburg publishing house relative to the publication of a city directory. The need of a directory giving the names, occupations and residence numbers of the citizens has been felt for years, and as no one in the town feels disposed to engage in the work of compiling and publishing such a book the opportunity of having the work done by the Pittsburg firm should be seized by the citizens.

Business and professional men especially realize the fact that a directory of Clearfield is a necessity. The convenience of such a volume, enabling residents of the town to quickly locate each other's place of business or of residence is such that without a directory the people of a town are practically lost. Recognizing the importance of having a borough directory, the citizens should give Mr. McGlo, representing R. L. Polk Co., the Pittsburg publishers, courteous hearing and such patronage as they feel themselves justified in extending to the projectors of the new directory.

WITH ME WITHOUT YOU

We are old now, but we are young. A little old and a little young. The world is heavy in our hands, but we are not bent under its weight.

Are you full and happy for your year?
Tired of time, what have we for years?
My golden butterfly, you need the ball,
But I am old, and tired of it all.

We are old in love, we are old, I cannot spoil you with my kisses and There is a crease in our love, and
I love you as I love you, and I love you.

ANCIENT MONEY MUCH PRIZED

Believed to Be Currency Used by Tribes Before the Era of the Roman Empire.

Peasants plowing a field in the comune of Castelnuovo dell'Emilia, in Italy, in the year 1897 turned up a big Umbrian vase full of aes-signatum, which is ancient money marked with a sign, supposedly that of a tribe. There were in all 66 pieces, all covered with the characteristic patina of bronze that has been buried for ages.

The aes-signatum of the early Romans is not very rare, but only one other find of this far more ancient money has been made. This was at Fiesole, near Florence, but unfortunately the finders had no idea of its value or rarity and all of it was melted down for a bronze founder except one single specimen. There is not one specimen in the British museum and very few other museums have any.

How old this money is we can only guess. The best authorities say it is pre-Roman, probably the money of the Italic tribes that, if not aboriginal, inhabited southern Europe about 1,000 B. C. There has been much controversy over this money, and there are a few archaeologists who even deny that it was real money. Each piece is of solid bronze and bears on its surface a figure which is supposed to be the sign of the tribe to which it belonged.

Bad Habit to Cultivate.

The habit of dissipating every serious thought by a suggestion of agreeable sensations is as fatal to happiness as to virtue; for when amusement is uniformly substituted for objects of moral and mental interest, we lose all that elevates our enjoyments above the scale of childish pleasures.—Anna Maria Porter.

One Tree Brings $100.

The government has received $93.40 in settlement for a single sugar pine tree which was cut in trespass in the Stanislaus national forest, in California, and which yielded more than enough actual lumber to build a good-sized suburban frame house. The tree scaled 18,222 board feet and was valued at $5.25 per thousand feet.

Judge Lindsey's Fight Against His Enemies

(By United Press)

Denver, April 9.—Picture a little man about five feet three inches tall and weighing about 110 pounds. In repose he is soft spoken. He is a judge. A few years ago he began to expound the theory that boys and girls who violated the laws nevertheless had souls. He believed that a boy in short trousers, or still in his teens, who went astray was not necessarily damned for the rest of his life. Then he put these theories into practice. Things that he said began to carry weight. People listened to him, and the quiet little judge, whose heart went out to be boys and girls, began to talk. It developed that the same tongue which spoke only words of encouragement, advice, and cheer for wayward young folks, had a veritable sawedge for certain grown-ups.

The little judge wrote a book. It was called "The Beast and the Jungle." It exposed one of the worst conditions of political corruption in the country. The corruption was right in the judge's home town—Denver.

A terrible wall went up. And for twelve years now Judge Ben D. Lindsey, of the Denver juvenile court, for that is who this little judge is—has been fighting.

In twelve years Judge Lindsey has been forced to run for election seven times. Neither of these, however, progressed to the point of coming to a vote. But that isn't all. Every legislature since 1905 has brought forth some sort of "anti-Lindsey" bill. This year is no exception.

Each new attack upon Judge Lindsey attracts attention, but they are really only incidents in the great fight which, in the eyes of the judge, is the fight for the soul of the city. The fight is for the soul of the city, for the soul of the city is the soul of the people, and the soul of the people is the soul of the city.

The fight is for the soul of the city, for the soul of the city is the soul of the people, and the soul of the people is the soul of the city. The fight is for the soul of the city, for the soul of the city is the soul of the people, and the soul of the people is the soul of the city.

"unfavorable publicity." By exposing corruption and hitting at the grafters he was said to be giving the city an unsavory reputation. So the fight has been conducted on the theory that if they could remove Judge Lindsey from the juvenile bench where he first attracted attention, what he had to say would cease to attract attention.

The recall was first tried in the fall of 1913. Judge Lindsey had just been confined for three months in the hospital. Public meetings were held and recall petitions were circulated but "The Beast" could not get enough signatures.

When the Judge went East with the wives of striking miners in the spring of 1914 to plead their cause recall endeavor was revived. It failed again.

In addition to being elected seven times, the judge has also been appointed three times, twice by hostile boards of city commissioners and once by Mayor Robert W. Speer, one of his political enemies.

Two years ago Judge Lindsey was elected by 35,000 majority out of 60,000 votes cast for the office.

The bills introduced in the legislature directed against Lindsey have been as varied in character as the different angles of the fight against him.

When Judge Lindsey has left the city on speaking trips he has employed a judge to take his place on the bench. One of the early bills, therefore, was intended to prohibit the employment of an outside judge. Another prohibited the juvenile court judge from leaving the state except during the month of July. Then came the attempt to place the juvenile court judge in the district court.

The bills introduced in the legislature directed against Lindsey have been as varied in character as the different angles of the fight against him.

Where Did It Go?

The Money you planned to save last year? In one way and another it disappeared; small items of unplanned-for expense that you did not think of; an extra trip, and a few unnecessary luxuries. You cannot even remember them now, but the money is gone and another year has slipped by and you have nothing laid aside as reserve for future emergencies.

The only satisfactory way to save money is to have a savings account in This Bank and deposit some amount regularly on each payday. While in your pocket the money is too easily spent, but once in the Bank it is really saved for then you must think at least twice before you decide to withdraw it.

Let us help you. Deposit with us and save your savings.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Softly the evening came. The sun from the western horizon. Like a magician extended his golden wand over the landscape. Twinkling vapors arose, and sky and sea and forest seemed all on fire at the touch, and melted and mingled together. —Evangeline.

THE CHILD'S LUNCHEON.

A large percentage of mothers all over the land have the ever-present lunch-box problem to solve each day. Some where an ingenious mother who had four other friends, each with a child to send with a lunch basket, proposed that once a week each prepare a basket lunch for the five.

In this way saving the daily task for each. The mothers could do with pleasure once a week what was such a bugbear in its frequency. The mother knows that her child's mentality as well as his physical power depends upon his food largely and the growing child should have nourishing, plain, wholesome and easily digested food.

The child naturally craves sweets and they should be given in moderate amount, as they are necessary to furnish fuel. Sweets should be given at the close of the meal so that they may not clog the taste for the substantial things as they do if given before or at the beginning of a meal.

Another important point to remember with children is that their digestive processes are much more rapid than with adults, and they need a good, substantial lunch.

Eggs cooked hard and well seasoned make a most satisfactory sandwich filling. Thin slices of meat between well-spread slices of bread. The sandwich is an important factor, and should have first place. Bottles now may be bought at a small price which will hold a hot drink or soup, cocoa and milk being the drinks best for the child. A handful of nuts and raisins or a few figs or dates will add to the enjoyment of a lunch as well as to its nutritive value.

Fresh fruit, an apple or an orange, a cake of sweet chocolate or a few pieces of good candy make a well-enjoyed finish to a meal. The child loves a surprise, will eat with relish and digest a meal much better if it is something that comes as a surprise. Cup custards are most delicious desserts, rice with custard and raisins make another simple and tasty one.

GOSPEL MEETINGS BY SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS

A series of gospel meetings will begin Tuesday night at 7:30, at the Seventh Day Adventist church located on Market street. Evangelist F. H. Robbins, of Pittsburgh, will be in charge of these meetings.

Program for this week, subjects as follows:

Sunday night—"The Millennium—No Second Probation."

A hearty welcome is given to everyone to attend these meetings. Come, bring your Bibles.

Being sent for, Saul loved him greatly and made him his armor bearer. How strange it all seems! God moves in a mysterious way. What a wonderful chapter! How can we refrain from saying, "Lord, take control of me and all my affairs and work out in and through me all thy good pleasure." It would seem that Jesse was an old man at this time, and his family consisted of eight sons and two daughters (xvii, 12; I Chron. ii, 16), but David's mother's name is not given.

The whole story is an illustration of the truth of Eph. ii, 10, that God has the life and service of His redeemed all planned beforehand and will work it out if we will let Him. See Jer. i, 4-9.

The regular term of Glen Richey's Summer Normal school will open Tuesday, May 4th and continue for eight weeks. Tuition $7.00, $8.00 and $5.00. J. M. Rowles, President. 91

EGGS FOR HATCHING

Single Comb White Leghorns, selected hens of good size and good laying quality, mated with North American competition Cockerels from a 200 egg strain. Good winter layers. Fertility guaranteed. ORDER EARLY.

$1.00 for setting of 15, $2.75 for 50, $5.00 for 100.

REV. ROBERT C. PETERS

Returning the Empties Philadelphia North American.

The Rev. E. M. Evans is pastor of Trinity Methodist church, in Des Moines, Ia.

In common with many other residents of that city he lately received a letter from a liquor firm in Rochester, Minn., telling him how to get his "favorite brand"—"now that the saloons in Des Moines are closed."

Mr. Evans replied to this invitation in an interesting way with a subject just now uppermost in the minds of nearly one-third of the earth's population—including, in a most immediate sense the 8,000,000 people in Pennsylvania—we print it, as follows:

It was very kind and thoughtful of you to inform me of a way of securing your favorite brand, "Old Bob Adams" whisky, since Iowa has gone crazy and "batted" in on our personal liberties. One would expect better things of Iowa than to interfere with faithful services of such as "Old Bob Adams." I offer myself as a witness to the untiring energy and successful accomplishments of his race.

Last January a young man stood at my door shivering with cold asking for bread and a place to rest his discouraged head. He was a remnant of refinement, which led me to ask why he could not earn the necessities of life.

He, with pathetic quiver of lip, admitted that a leading brand, not unlike "Old Bob Adams," had selected him for a regular customer and the business world would not stand for it, notifying him that there was no place for his services. Why can't the business world see beyond its nose and behold great breweries, elegant palaces, fine motorcars, sumptuous meals, rich clothing, and all that belongs to your gigantic business and keep its hands off? What right has the business world to interfere with personal liberties?

Not long ago I carried a basket containing food to a house where some side partner of "Old Bob Adams" had been before me. The wind whistled through broken windows as I listened to the weak and pathetic cry of hungry children and the pleadings of a heartbroken wife with sunken eyes and pale face for the bare necessities of life. The husband and a relative of "Old Bob" had long been friends. They together had bought rich food for brewers' children, fine clothing for the brewer and his wife and contributed generally to the upkeep of his expensive establishment.

Since reading your letter I walked down Fifth street of this city, passed the Neal Institute and Keely establishment. I saw men who once had bright prospects for a successful and an independent future, but their faces today are covered with a literature of sorrow and defeat.

I note you pay the French, on returned empties. I would like to send you a full carload of empties if you will honor your agreement. I suppose the freight will be much cheaper in full carload lots? To be honest with you, the empties are not in first class condition.

They consist of empty men—empty of manhood, energy, ambition, prospects, self-respect and necessities of life—empty heart, empty heart, empty stomach. Also empty women, empty of womanhood, refinement, modesty and hope. Will it be worth while making the return of this carload of empties? Will this carload of empties be worth the freight to you?

I will file your blank order sheet, and when I conclude to sell my soul, damn manhood, debauch womanhood, sap the life blood of children, I will honor you with a large order of "Old Bob Adams," but for the present in the language of your friend, Billy Sunday, I will "cut out the red eye and use Minnesota Sleepy Eye."

MOTHER'S LOT IS TO WAIT

Life in Homeburg Has Its Joys and Sorrows. With the Latter Predominating.

It's mighty hard to be a mother of sons in Homeburg. I worked in the post office for a year once—handed out mail—and I got to know just exactly what most of the mothers in town wanted. I could please them with a new magazine and mystify them with a circular or a business letter. But if I wanted to light them up until they took the shadows out of the corners as they went out I would give them a letter from a son, way off somewhere making good. The best of them didn't write any too often. Once a week is pretty regular, I suppose, from the other end; but you should see the mother begin to come in hungry again the second day after her letter came. And when a boy came home successful and prosperous, and his proud mother towed him down Main street it used to go to my heart to see the wistful looks of the woman friends. There is hardly a family in Homeburg of the right age which hasn't a grownup son off at war somewhere—fighting failure. It's grand when they win; but I hate to think of some boys who haven't come back—George Fitch in the American Magazine.

Dust Clouds Armies Make.

An army on the march along dry roads naturally throws up very heavy dust clouds. One those who haven't been trained to dust cloud looks very much like another, but to a soldier these dust clouds tell a very clear story.

The dust clouds thrown up by infantry, for example, hang in a low, thick cloud. The longer, the cloud, the more men underneath it, and a scout can, by this means, make a fairly accurate guess of the number of men on the march.

Cavalry on the march sends up a dust cloud that is much higher and thinner than that of infantry. The most distinctive of these dust clouds, however, is that made by wagons and heavy guns. The dust rises in little groups of clouds, quite different from the long clouds of cavalry and infantry.

So even when unable to see the actual cause of the dust, a scout can tell many miles away what kind of force is passing along a road.

Chinese Mentality.

Archibald Ross Colquhoun, author of "China in Transformation," had great respect for the characteristics of the Chinese people. During his long visits to their country in 1881, in 1883 and in 1896 he had a chance of observing them in all their relations. Their intellectual capacity, he believes, "may rank with the best in western countries." Their own literary studies, in which memory plays the important part, prove the nation to be capable of prodigious achievements in that direction. "A Chinese acquaintance of mine," he said, "was able at the age of sixty-five to reproduce, verbatim, letters received by him in his youth." Whether in mathematics and applied science or in metaphysics "the Chinese is capable of holding his own against all competitors." A new revised edition of "China in Transformation" was brought out two years before Mr. Colquhoun's death.

Imaginary life

Sorrow itself is not so hard to bear as the thought of sorrow coming. Airy ghosts that work no harm do terrify us more than men in steel with bloody purposes.—Aldrich.

He is past master of the art of telling a story. He has humor, a keen sense of the dramatic, and a knack of turning out a happy ending just when the complications of the plot threaten worse disasters.

TO ENFORCE GAMBLING RULE

Manager Branch Rickey of St. Louis Browns Plans to Be Hard Boss — Ban on Card Games.

"I am going to offer no new rules. The players will not be permitted to gamble. That's an old rule, but wasn't enforced last season," said Manager Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Browns, in other day "By gambling, mean that the men must not wager or any sums that they cannot afford."

"No gambling will be permitted in the hotel. The players may promise to break up their games at eleven o'clock, but they seldom do that. So he ban is on gambling in the hotels, no matter what the promise is for calling the contest earlier, or of limited stakes."

"A little session on the train, under my observation, will be permitted. I can then see that the players cease card playing, and retire at a reasonable hour. I do not favor gambling, however."

Manager Branch Rickey.

NOT AN IMPRESSIVE MONARCH

Napoleon III, in Appearance, Left Much to Be Desired, According to John Hay.

Short and stocky, he moves with a queer, sideling gait, like a gouty crab; a man so wooden looking that you would expect his voice to come rasping out like a watchman's rattle. A complexion like crude tallow—marked for death, whenever death would come—was taken some time in half an hour, or left, neglected by the kitchen boy, for years, perhaps, if properly cooked. The mustache and imperial which the world knows, but ragged and brittle, concealing the mouth entirely, is moving a little nervously as the lips twitch. Eyes sleepily watchful—furtive, stealthy, rather ignoble, like servants looking out of dirty windows and saying "nobody at home," and lying as they say it. And without a wonderful phlegm. He stands there as still and impassive as if carved in oak for a ship's figurehead. He looks not unlike one of those rude, artistic statues. His legs are too short, his body too long. He never looks well but on a throne or on a horse, as kings ought.—From the Diary of John Hay, Edited by W. R. Thayer for Harper's Magazine.

WALLACETON

Mrs. D. D. Richards was a business caller to Phillipsburg on Thursday.

Toben Hummel, one of our young fellows and president of our borough council is not very well at this meeting. He was at Woodland Thursday evening, consulting Dr. Mauk.

Carl Houek and Frank Hazel have been roofing a house in Chester Hill the last couple of days.

Mrs. Charles Singer, of Six-Mile run, Bedford county, was visiting friends and relatives in our burg on Wednesday.

Salem's revival meeting seems to attract the attention of quite a few of our young people.

Mrs. John Ternin has been on the sick list for a few days.

John Kennedy, H. W. Ref. Co's machinist, had business at Clearfield on Thursday.

William Washburn, of Morrisdale, made his usual call at Wallacetown on Wednesday evening. Guess "Bill" has some attraction.

Our baseball club has not organized yet, but the boys are out practicing and preparations are being made to repair the grand stand and make a good playing field in Wallacetown that will not be surpassed by any in this neck of the woods. Expect these will organize in the near future.

James Quinn, of Clearfield, who will be one of Harbison-Walker Ref. Co's foremen at our new brick yard, upon resuming operations, expects to shortly move his family to our city. Clearfield's loss will be Wallacetown's gain.

Mr. and Mrs. Swift and little daughter, Margaret, of Clearfield, are spending a few days' visit with friends and relatives in this place.

Mr. Askey, of Osceola, was visiting relatives here on Wednesday.

Miss Eva Goss has returned to her home in this place after a week's visit to his sister, Mrs. Jacob Miller, of Altoona.

To Avoid "Colds."
"A few points to remember if you would avoid taking cold: Never go directly from a very warm atmosphere into very cold air. Don't jump from an overheated room into an ice-cold bed on a sleeping porch. Remove your wraps when shopping indoors on a cold day or when visiting. Don't bundle up the throat, but don't expose the whole chest. Seventy degrees should be the highest temperature in your living rooms or offices. Don't overexert, then expose yourself to infection in a draft or in a hot room that is probably full of disease germs. Keep your quality of air, avoid people with bad colds, and you will probably get through the bad seasons with not more than a sniffle or so."—Kansas City Star.

PLAYERS GETTING TOO MUCH

President Charles Ebbets of Brooklyn Team, Says Salaries Are Altogether Too High.

Charles Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn National League club, declares that salaries of ball players are away out of proportion to the value of services rendered by the men and that he for one does not intend to be held up by them any longer. If they are not satisfied with what he offers them they can jump to the Federal League. Discussing the subject not long ago Ebbets said:

"I've grown tired of coddling the players and submitting to their hold-up tactics. All last season I tried to keep my players in line by meeting the Federal league offers. That has cost me a lot of money. But I am through with those tactics."

"The whole gang can jump, if it wants to. They can't gouge me for another dollar. Salaries have been boosted far beyond proportion. Every dollar being made in baseball is going to the players these days."

"I'm offering my men salaries that I think are in keeping with what they earn. During the past year I have paid them salaries above their earning capacity. I'm through now. Any of my men who want to jump can jump. I'll fill their places; I'll get semiprofits necessary."

Ladle Alone Remains.

The passing of Billy Sullivan from the American league leaves Larry Ladle the only veteran who broke in when the league came into existence. Larry is secured of a lifelong job, for he is the player who made the organization.

Signs of Pain.

It is difficult to estimate the degree of pain, but there are certain signs of suffering which are unmistakable: the pained features, the knotted brow, the rolling eyes with widely dilated pupils, the ashen countenance, the cool and clammy skin, the thready pulse, the increased blood pressure, the hands alternately clenched and opened, the cries and groans and the bodily contortions. All these present a definite picture with which every experienced physician or nurse is familiar.

Marriage.

Voltaire, in his "Philosophical Dictionary," says: "The more married men you have the fewer crimes there will be. Examine the criminal calendars; you will find there a hundred youths sentenced to one father of a family. Marriage renders men more virtuous and more wise. The father of a family is not willing to blush for his children; he is afraid to make shade their inheritance."
